The next day the rabbit comes back in and asks for some carrots. The barman is a little cross and says, "I told you yesterday mate, we don't sell carrots. Unless you've got a sensible order get out." The rabbit leaves.

Next day at the same time the rabbit comes back again and asks for some carrots. The barman screams at him, "No, we don't have any carrots and if you come in here tomorrow asking for carrots I'm going to nail you by the ears to the door!"

The next day the rabbit pops his head round the door and says, "Have you got any nails?" The barman says he hasn't so the rabbit says, "OK then, how about some carrots."
